CO's Update

Dear All,

The Unit is running very well at the moment, and the number of Cadets has increased at TS Invincible which is good news.

TS Ocean at Leighton Buzzard has just had its 2nd Birthday Parade and our new Emberton Unit is looking really good too.

Unfortunately, we had a break in at Emberton and all the power tools and equipment were stolen including 'Henry the hoover', so it has slowed up the opening of the unit.

However, we are making it secure and looking to get it open by the end of June 2013.

Our next adventure is the yearly Summer Camp and this year we are going to Belgium. It will be a very exciting week with the Belgium Navy, so get your name down and the deposit paid by 31st May. Any problems contact Mrs.Moth.

We are still looking for helpers for Emberton, so let me know if you are available. Keep up the good hard work everybody.

CO Dave Moth

Marines - John Owens, Lt Marine Cadets

The first evening activity of this New Year was a winter warfare exercise in January.

However, due to road conditions to the exercise area the event was cancelled.

We thought the weather was improving and suddenly it reverted back to winter just as we preparing to go to the Derby Peak district for an abseiling and caving weekend.

Once again the weather and travelling conditions conspired against us forcing us to cancel yet another event.

“By Sea,
By Land”

“Your mission should you choose to accept it is ..”

Our two night exercises undertaken recently were the Dark Knight and Dark Destroyer.

The venue for the exercises was at the Spy Games site on the Buckingham Road. These were two sophisticated exercises based on the typical Royal Marine Senior NCO Cadre.

Dark Knight was a covert target reconnaissance exercise using laser tag weaponry. We practiced chasing each other around Bletchley Park which was great fun for all of us.

We set off at 22:30 and deployed a four man patrol which split into two sections. Their task was to reconnoitre a vehicle park especially a prison van parked in the compound. One team managed to get close enough to get the registration number. The other team unfortunately got caught by the enemy guards. Both teams returned to Invincible and drew up a map and plan for the next phase, the target attack.

The following Friday, armed this time with AirSoft, we practised hostage rescue using smoke grenades and thunderflashes.

Once again we were using a 4 man team divided into two sections, a fire support team and a snatch team. The cadets were given their mission; to rescue Teddy Bear Grills –yes that’s where the other Edward got his sobriquet. The Marine cadets constructed their plan and we deployed once again at around 22:30.

The two teams made their way to the target area and just after midnight, initiated their hostage rescue. They say a battle plan is good only up to the first round goes down and this is exactly what happened to our attack teams. The fire support lost contact with the snatch team and they in turn had to do a fighting retreat from the heavily armed enemy (the Staff with automatic weapons and grenades).

The two man cadets section gave up within a hundred yards of the end point and lo and behold the lost fire support section turned up at the same place 10 minutes later and walked into an enemy ambush. One cadet escaped and we called endex.

After all the fun and games, it was time to return to the unit for hot soup and medals.
